Two international commerce giants have launched Bolero.net, a new business-to-business (B2B) hub that gives importers, exporters, shipping organizations and financial institutions an online network to automate the paperwork associated with international transactions.

The partners are the Through Transport Club (TT Club), a giant mutual insurance company for shipping companies, and Society for Worldwide Interbank Financial Telecommunications (SWIFT), a bank-owned cooperative that handles secure messaging and international funds transfers for more than 7,600 banks worldwide.
